- 1.1 Key decisions were introduced by the Local Government Act 2000. A key decision is a decision on an executive function which must appear on a public list (known as the Forward Plan) giving details of the decision itself, who will make the decision, when it will be made, what information will be used on which to base the decision and how interested members of the public may make representations about that decision in advance. A Forward Plan must be published for a period of four months ahead and is updated monthly. Any key decision may not be made unless it is included in the Forward Plan.
- 1.2 Key decisions relate only to executive functions. They are decisions of significance that the public should be aware of in advance. Key decisions may apply to decisions of the Cabinet, a Cabinet Committee, a Portfolio Holder or an officer. In the case of a Portfolio Holder or officer, this must be in accordance with existing delegated authority.
- 1.3 The definition of what constitutes a key decision is laid down in Government Regulations.
- 1.4 The recent review of Overview and Scrutiny raised the importance of the key decision list in assisting Overview and Scrutiny to determine its work programme for any year. It was acknowledged that there would be occasions when a forthcoming key decision might be of interest to Overview and Scrutiny who might wish to devote member time to examine the issue. However, the feeling was that the definitions of key decisions currently in use reduced the key decision list to very few items.
- 1.5 Consideration has been given to making changes to the Key Decision/Forward Plan process to make the list more meaningful to the public. These include changing the financial definitions. The limit of £500,000 for items within policy/budget is high compared with other councils and there is a case for reducing this limit to £250,000. It is further suggested that those between £250,000 and £1m in value should be dealt with at Portfolio Holder level. Those in excess of £1m would still be referred to the Cabinet. In addition some minor changes are being proposed to clarify the financial definitions. These changes to the financial limits should make the Forward Plan more meaningful to members and the public as it will require more key decisions to be recorded. Restricting Cabinet decisions to those of £1m or more will control the length of Cabinet agenda.

- 1.6 Heads of Service are unable to make key decisions. In February 2003, the Council decided to allow key decisions to be made by Portfolio Holders but some key decisions are matters that normally require Council approval, the changes now proposed resolve this anomaly.
- 1.7 A re-definition of key decisions has been raised as part of the Overview and Scrutiny Review and agreed as a principle by the Council. The proposed reduction in the financial threshold for key decisions will have the effect of including a greater number of key decisions on the Forward Programme and allowing more Portfolio Holder decisions. The other changes to the definitions of key decisions are designed to clarify wording and remove some existing anomalies in relation to matters requiring Council approval.
